<td>Course Description</td>
<td>This is a course in metaphysics, one of the core areas of philosophy. Metaphysics is the philosophical study of what it is for something to exist — and of what fundamental kinds of thing exist. We will study these general metaphysical topics:</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>externality Is there a world external to your mind? Is there a physical and non-mental world?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>objectivity Is there a world with features about which we might all be mistaken? Is there a world we do not create?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>possibility Do possibilities literally exist? Where? Are there necessities? Where? Within things? Are some aspects of things essential to them? Are there counterfactual possibilities? Can an individual exist as part of more than one possible state of affairs?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>ultimate being Is there a God? How well can we argue for the existence of such a being?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>existence Why is there anything at all? Are there things that do not exist?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>properties How do things have characteristics? Are there essential properties?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>people What is a person? Do people have free will? Are people ever morally responsible for their actions?</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Course Aims</td>
<td>1. The philosophical aim is for students to gain an awareness of some historically and philosophically important ideas and ways of thinking</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Student Learning Outcomes</td>
<td>1. An increased ability to engage critically and imaginatively with those ideas and those ways of thinking.</td>

<tr>
<td>Graduate Attributes</td>
<td>1. Being capable of independent and collaborative enquiry</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td></td>
<td>2. Being rigorous in analysis, critique, and reflection</td>

3. Learning and Teaching Rationale

The course will be taught via what is usually called the Socratic method. This means that the emphasis will not simply be on my presenting what I regard as the correct answers to the philosophical questions being discussed. Each meeting will be conducted as a guided but shared inquiry. In other words, it will be a seminar, in which I will lead the discussion. I will begin each meeting by presenting some of the main issues, claims, and concepts that are to be found in the reading for that week. I will then pose questions for discussion. These are intended to encourage students to reflect critically and imaginatively upon those issues, claims, and concepts. I will encourage you to follow through the implications and subtleties of their comments and suggestions. You will be encouraged to interact with your fellow students in those ways, too. What is sought is an atmosphere of inquiry — active learning.

This is sought because, for most students, it is a particularly effective way to gain — and to retain — a deeper sense of what philosophical thinking involves. Not coincidentally, it also reflects the way in which philosophy is actually conducted among professional philosophers. Philosophy is a discipline within which there is much critical debate. This can be a way of showing respect for someone’s ideas. It can also be about what might appear to be the simplest aspects of an issue. For it is all too easy to take for granted — as being quite clear and simple — much that is actually not so clear or simple. A great deal of philosophical discussion thus tries to clarify questions, before offering and assessing answers to them. In this class we will aim to become better at posing, and at answering, some fundamental epistemological questions. Skills of understanding, analysing, reasoning, and imagining will be called upon — and strengthened, hopefully.

I will not ‘spoon-feed’ you, such as by dictating lectures, or by distributing notes or posting web material, for you merely to absorb. This is a course in which you will have a marked opportunity to think — and to think for yourself. This opportunity to improve your ability to think well and philosophically will also place more responsibility upon you to do so. It will be up to you to pay attention, to be ready for potentially surprising changes of direction in discussion (always knowing that I will not allow these to divert us too far from the day’s main questions), and to note important points without my always having to say which are important points.

You are never required to agree with what you read for the course. But if you do disagree with it, you should think of good reasons for why, in your view, it is mistaken.

</tbody>
</table>

The essay will be on topics from meetings 1 through 6. The final exam will be on topics from meetings 7 through 12.
Please Note: In addition to fulfilling the above assessment requirements, students are expected to attend at least 80% of their lectures and tutorials in order to pass the course.

Formal Examination

This course has a formal examination which will be scheduled in the formal examination period from 7 – 22 November 2014. Students are expected to give their studies priority and this includes making themselves available for the entire examination period. Travel commitments made prior to the publication of the final examination timetable are not a valid reason for alternate assessment.

Grades

All results are reviewed at the end of each semester and may be adjusted to ensure equitable marking across the School.

The proportion of marks lying in each grading range is determined not by any formula or quota system, but by the way that students respond to assessment tasks and how well they meet the objectives of the course. Nevertheless, since higher grades imply performance that is well above average, the number of distinctions and high distinctions awarded in a typical course is relatively small. At the other extreme, on average 6.1% of students do not meet minimum standards and a little more (8.6%) in first year courses. For more information on the grading categories see https://my.unsw.edu.au/student/academiclife/assessment/GuideToUNSWGrades.html

Submission of Assessment Tasks

Assignments which are submitted to the School Assignment Box must have a properly completed School Assessment Coversheet, with the declaration signed and dated by hand. The Coversheet can be downloaded from https://hal.arts.unsw.edu.au/students/courses/course-outlines/. It is your responsibility to make a backup copy of the assignment prior to submission and retain it.

Assignments must be submitted before 4:00pm on the due date. Assignments received after this time will be marked as having been received late.

Late Submission of Assignments

Late assignments will attract a penalty. The essay will be marked out of 40. For the first week or less of being late, 1 point will be deducted for each day of such lateness (with Saturday and Sunday counting as two days). A further 4 points (=10%) will be deducted each further week (or part of each such week) of lateness for the essay.

The penalty may not apply where students are able to provide documentary evidence of illness or serious misadventure. Time pressure resulting from undertaking assignments for other courses does not constitute an acceptable excuse for lateness.
6. Attendance/Class Clash

Attendance

Students are expected to be regular and punctual in attendance at all classes in the courses in which they are enrolled. Explanations of absences from classes or requests for permission to be absent from classes should be discussed with the teacher and where applicable accompanied by a medical certificate. If students attend less than 80% of their possible classes they may be refused final assessment.

Students who falsify their attendance or falsify attendance on behalf of another student will be dealt with under the student misconduct policy.

Class Clash

A student who is approved a permissible clash must fulfil the following requirements:

a. The student must provide the Course Convenor with copies of lecture notes from those lectures missed on a regular basis as agreed by the Course Convenor and the student.

b. If a student does attend a lecture for which they had secured a permitted clash they will still submit lecture notes as evidence of attendance.

c. Failure to meet these requirements is regarded as unsatisfactory performance in the course and a failure to meet the Faculty's course attendance requirement. Accordingly, Course Convenors will fail students who do not meet this performance/attendance requirement.

d. Students must attend the clashed lecture on a specific date if that lecture contains an assessment task for the course such as a quiz or test. Inability to meet this requirement would be grounds for a Course Convenor refusing the application. If the student misses the said lecture there is no obligation on the Course Convenor to schedule a make-up quiz or test and the student can receive zero for the assessment task. It should be noted that in many courses a failure to complete an assessment task can be grounds for course failure.

7. Academic Honesty and Plagiarism

Plagiarism is presenting someone else’s thoughts or work as your own. It can take many forms, from not having appropriate academic referencing to deliberate cheating.

In many cases plagiarism is the result of inexperience about academic conventions. The University has resources and information to assist you to avoid plagiarism.

The Learning Centre assists students with understanding academic integrity and how to not plagiarise. Information is available on their website: http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au/plagiarism/. They also hold workshops and can help students one-on-one.

If plagiarism is found in your work when you are in first year, your lecturer will offer you assistance to improve your academic skills. They may ask you to look at some online resources, attend the Learning Centre, or sometimes resubmit your work with the problem fixed. However, more serious instances in first year, such as stealing another student’s work or paying someone to do your work, may be investigated under the Student Misconduct Procedures.
Repeated plagiarism (even in first year), plagiarism after first year, or serious instances, may also be investigated under the Student Misconduct Procedures. The penalties under the procedures can include a reduction in marks, failing a course or for the most serious matters (like plagiarism in an Honours thesis) or even suspension from the university. The Student Misconduct Procedures are available here:

9. Course Resources

Textbook Details

Metaphysics, by Peter van Inwagen (third edition) – available from UNSW bookshop

[referred to in section 8 above as ‘PVI’]

Additional Readings

Course readings booklet – available from UNSW bookshop

[containing all of the other readings listed in section 8 above]

10. Course Evaluation and Development

Courses are periodically reviewed and students’ feedback is used to improve them. Feedback is gathered using various means including UNSW’s Course and Teaching Evaluation and Improvement (CATEI) process.

11. Student Support

The Learning Centre is available for individual consultation and workshops on academic skills. Find out more by visiting the Centre’s website at:

http://www.lc.unsw.edu.au

12. Grievances

All students should be treated fairly in the course of their studies at UNSW. Students who feel they have not been dealt with fairly should, in the first instance, attempt to resolve any issues with their tutor or the course convenors.

If such an approach fails to resolve the matter, the School of Humanities and Languages has an academic member of staff who acts as a Grievance Officer for the School. This staff member is identified on the notice board in the School of Humanities and languages. Further information about UNSW grievance procedures is available at:

https://my.unsw.edu.au/student/atoz/Complaints.html

OHS
UNSW's Occupational Health and Safety Policy requires each person to work safely and responsibly, in order to avoid personal injury and to protect the safety of others. For all matters relating to Occupational Health, Safety and environment, see http://www.ohs.unsw.edu.au/

Special Consideration

In cases where illness or other circumstances produce repeated or sustained absence, students should apply for Special Consideration as soon as possible.

The application must be made via Online Services in myUNSW. Log into myUNSW and go to My Student Profile tab > My Student Services channel > Online Services > Special Consideration.

Applications on the grounds of illness must be filled in by a medical practitioner. Further information is available at:

Student Equity and Disabilities Unit

Students who have a disability that requires some adjustment in their learning and teaching environment are encouraged to discuss their study needs with the course convener prior to or at the commencement of the course, or with the Student Equity Officers (Disability) in the Student Equity and Disabilities Unit (9385 4734). Information for students with disabilities is available at: http://www.studentequity.unsw.edu.au

Issues that can be discussed may include access to materials, signers or note-takers, the provision of services and additional examination and assessment arrangements. Early notification is essential to enable any necessary adjustments to be made.
