The emergence of the environmental humanities is part of a growing willingness to engage with the environment across a range of humanities and social sciences disciplines.

Convened by the Environmental Humanities Group at UNSW, this interactive workshop will consider the ways in which thinking through the environment offers a new set of provocations to the humanities.

The first two days of the workshop will be held on campus at UNSW. The final day will be a ‘walking workshop’ along Wolli Creek and Cooks River in Southern Sydney.

 Speakers Include:
Thom van Dooren (UNSW)
Katherine Gibson (UWS)
Heather Goodall (UTS)
Jen Hamilton (UNSW)
Lesley Head (Wollongong)
Donna Houston (Macquarie)
Grace Karskens (UNSW)
Matthew Kearnes (UNSW)
Lindsay Kelley (COFA)
Eben Kirksey (UNSW)
Andy Kissane (poet)
Vanessa Lemm (UNSW)
Stephen Muecke (UNSW)
Emily O’Gorman (Macquarie)
Beatrice Pegard (UNSW)
Deborah Bird Rose (UNSW)
Jeremy Walker (UTS)
Jessica Weir (UWS)
Kate Wright (Macquarie)